RAILROAD CLUB WILL HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

The regular weekly meeting of the Hudson Valley Model Railroad Club will be held tonight at the club-house adjacent to the New York Central freight station.

At the meeting last week a set of by-laws were passed and the yearly dues were determined. Quite some progress has been made in the construction of the tables used in the building of a miniature railroad system, scaled 1/4 inch to the foot and a layout plan has been adopted which features a two-track main line with the necessary engine terminals and sidings.

At the present time there are 15 members registered and membership is open to any man over 21 years of age who is interested in the construction and operation of a model railroad.

Ulster Is One-Sixth of the Emerald Isle's Area

Ulster, northern province of Ireland, comprises one-sixth of the total area of the Emerald Isle and one eighteenth of the total area of the British Isles.

There is a long seaboard to the north and east extending 245 miles while the land boundary to the south and west measures 200 miles. The bulk of the southern portion of the coast are shallow, but the eastern and northeastern shores are flanked by the deep North channel and good natural harbors are found in many places. Three estuaries—those of the Lagan, Foyle and Newry rivers—run for considerable distances inland and so greatly facilitate trading with the hinterland. The Lagan estuary is the principal goods port for Belfast and for an extensive inland district.

Topographically, Northern Ireland is chiefly hilly or rolling country, the highest levels being reached in the Mourne mountains in the south where the greatest height is 2,709 feet above sea level.

The country as a whole is famed for the wide diversity of its natural scenery ranging from the loveliness of Lough Erne and the Glens of Antrim to the rugged grandeur of the Giant's Causeway and the Coast road from Larne to Portrush.

Ruby First Jewel Made for the General Trade

The ruby was the first precious stone to be manufactured commercially, according to a writer in the Washington Post. It is simply oxide of aluminum with a small amount of oxide of chromium, which gives it to the brilliant red color. Many methods of making the ruby were tried from 1870 to 1890 all more or less successful from the chemical standpoint but failures from the commercial point of view. It happened, however, that rubies appeared on the market of Geneva whose origin could not be accounted for.

As a matter of fact, a curate of Geneva had succeeded in fusing chips of natural ruby given him by the lapidaries into large stones. This brought about a revival in the synthesis of the ruby, for it was argued that if ruby chips could be fused, the oxide of aluminum, of which they are composed, could be fused.

Professor Verneuil, the famous French chemist, finally succeeded in making the ruby, though only after many years of painful research and hard toil.

A monkey escaped from its cage in London, entered a woman's bedroom next door and powdered its nose, tried on the woman's jewelry, smashed all her cups and saucers then eluded police in a chase from one house to another.

Norvin R. Lasher Is Qualified for Office of Coroner

NORVIN R. LASHER.

Norvin R. Lasher of Saugerties is eminently qualified for the office of coroner and voters of Ulster county are asked to re-elect him on his record of the past three years. Mr. Lasher, widely known Saugerties business man, the Republican candidate for the office of coroner, has lived in this county all his life and is widely and favorably known. Born in Woodstock in 1882, a son of the late Alva D. Lasher, he acquired his early education in the public schools of Woodstock and later attended Spencer's Business College in Kingston and was graduated from that school in 1902.

Mr. Lasher then returned to Woodstock and engaged in the farming business with his father. This occupation he pursued until 1910. That year he entered the Leonard School of Embalming in New York city and was graduated with high honors. He was made a licensed embalmer by the New York State Board of Examiners and for a considerable period of time worked in the Bellevue morgue in New York city, where he obtained a wide experience in his chosen profession. This wide experience gained at that time and during his succeeding years in business in Ulster county eminently qualifies him for the position of coroner of the county of Ulster.

Having become thoroughly efficient in all phases of his profession, Mr. Lasher then returned to Woodstock and purchased the funeral directing business of Hiram Doyce. This business he continued until May, 1916, when he moved to Saugerties. At that time Mr. Lasher purchased the large three story building abutting on Main, James and Jane streets in the village of Saugerties where he now maintains one of the finest and best equipped funeral homes and furniture stores along the Hudson river. Through his business ability, fair dealings and service rendered the public he now has one of the largest funeral homes and furniture businesses in the town of Saugerties.

Mr. Lasher is a thorough and enterprising business man, possessing an attractive personality and is held in high regard by all who know him. He has been an active and earnest worker in the Republican party. Fraternally he is a member of various organizations, including the Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Jr. O. U. A. M. and the F. & A. M. Mr. Lasher has eminently qualified himself in the last three years for the office which he seeks and merits the confidence and support of the people of the county of Ulster on election day.

King Could Not Speak English. George I., king of England from 1714 to 1727, could neither speak nor write the English language. notes a writer in the Indianapolis News. He was the son of Ernest Augustus, elector of Hanover, and Sophia, granddaughter of James I. of England. The German became the nearest heir to the English crown on the theory that the blood of James II in the direct line was corrupted. When he succeeded Queen Anne as sovereign of England he was fifty-four years old and he made no attempt to learn the language of his kingdom. William of Orange, who reigned jointly with his wife, Mary, from 1689 to 1694 and as sole sovereign from 1694 until 1702, was Dutch in nationality, knew very little English, and was not sufficiently master of our language to address the house from the throne in his own words. On important occasions, it was his practice to write his speech in French, and to employ a translator. French was the native language of the English kings for many generations after the Norman conquest.

Spice Trees

Our foods are often flavored with nutmeg and mace and both these spices come from the same plant, the nutmeg tree, which grows in the East and West Indies and Brazil. The tree reaches a height of about 30 feet, and has large leathery evergreen leaves which give out a rich odor, and small, pale yellow flowers. The pear-shaped fruits open into two nearly equal halves, and the nutmeg is then disclosed, surrounded by a fleshy fibrous covering, which is the mace. Like the nutmeg, it is very fragrant. The nutmeg tree begins to bear fruit when it is eight years old, and goes on for about 60 years. Nutmeg and mace are used not only in cookery as a flavoring for custards and puddings, but in medicine as a stimulant and to disguise the taste of unpleasant drugs.

U. S. ISSUES BOOK ON SCIENCE OF LIFE

Tells How to Improve the Breed of Plants, Animals.

Washington.—Life for everyone can be made a thousand fold more enjoyable, the Department of Agriculture said, if full use is made of the present knowledge of genetics—the science of life.

Announcing the publication of a new book summarizing virtually all that is known today of the science of life, the department's scientists pointed out that while much has been accomplished in building plants and animals superior to anything known before, these developments have barely scratched the surface of the possibilities of present knowledge.

The book, second of a series of two on genetics, will be a 1,400 page volume compiled by the best authors available on breeding everything from dogs to popcorn. The wonders which can be worked by scientific juggling of the genes, which control the inheritance of all things, for onions, beets, potatoes, beans, blackberries, blueberries, fruits, trees and many other forms of life have been summed up for the first time in any language.

A year ago the department published a summary of the genetic knowledge of most of the major farm crops and animals and, for the first time in the history of its "year-books," it sold out the complete edition of 100,000 copies to make the volume a best-seller in the non-fiction field.

Discussing the two volumes on genetics, Secretary Wallace, himself an authority on the subject, said plant and animal breeding was "in the truest sense a science of cooperation with nature," making it possible for men to outdo nature's own efforts.

Greatest Need.

More knowledge of how to cooperate with nature "is the greatest need of the world today," he added, and "man's control of his own future may depend in the long run on whether his biological knowledge, which is constructive, can catch up with his knowledge of the physical sciences, which has taught him so much about how to destroy."

The two yearbooks on the science of life should be regarded as road markers "pointing the way toward a field of activity that will accomplish much more in the future than has been accomplished in the past," the secretary said.

He should be able to speak with authority, since he was one of the earliest pioneers in developing hybrid seed which doubled and in some cases trebled the yields per acre of corn in the Midwest.

Medical Cycles Found to Follow Number Seven

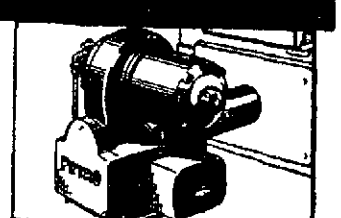

Minneapolis.—Although numerology has no place in medical science, Professor H. Finkelstein, of Berlin, in an article in "Modern Medicine," published here, points out that the number seven, its half (three and one-half), and its multiples offer a convenient handhold for diagnosis and prognosis of disease—particularly fever.

Professor Finkelstein points out that many diseases (as proved by fever charts) run their courses in waves of time divisible by seven, its half and its multiples.

Some of Finkelstein's examples: The incubation period of measles is seven days, during which there are no or only slight symptoms; in the next seven days occurs the prodrome of measles and eruptions; the crisis comes on the fourteenth day; if protracted, it lasts about three and one-half days.

In vaccination for smallpox there are no symptoms during the first three and one-half days; pustules develop during the next three and one-half days; on the seventh day acute exacerbation and fever begin; between the tenth and eleventh day (three times three and one-half days) fever begins to fall.

Wanted—Dictionary or Lawyer

Baltimore, Md.—A negro woman came before Judge Rowland K. Adams on a larceny charge, pleaded "guilty," and then insisted she had stolen nothing.

"Do you know what 'guilty' means?" the judge asked. "It means I didn't do it," the defendant replied. The jury acquitted her.

Pay Dirt

Fleetside, Va.—Flood waters on the Smith river here boomed the laundry business in nearby cities. Three million towels in a cotton mill bleachery needed washing after the muddy waters receded.

Claremore, Okla.—A Chelsea, Okla., man charged his pecan crop was killed by oil pollution. The oil company attorney introduced pecans from the land as defense evidence. Midway in the damage suit trial he heard a crunching. The jurors were eating the evidence.

Aw, Shoot!

Seattle — A luckless hunter dropped wearily to a log, when lo! a big bull elk crashed through

Monsignor Stanley Is Honored

prove an acceptable mouthpiece for his clergy and for you. It is a delicate task for one human being to appraise the worth of another. There is always the danger in avoiding the Scylla of vulgar flattery of suffering the shipwreck of platitudes. It is an intrusion upon the unique province of the Almighty Judge. But we can find a safe guide in her to whom our common friend always has been and is so devoted.

When the greatest honor ever bestowed upon a human being, an honor incomparable and never to be repeated, she in acknowledging it sought its source in all humility. For he who is mightily hath done great things to me and only in his name. Under her aegis, therefore, and without offending either against our friend's humility or engaging in mere human flattery, we can say of him what he so often in reciting the Divine Office says of other friends of God, "the Lord hath put on him a robe of honor, and put about his head a crown of joy."

When King Ahasuerus desired to honor one to whom he was beholden he commanded that Mordecai be clothed with a royal robe, and that proclamation be made to the people saying, "thus shall he be honored whom the King hath a mind to honor. We, representative of the King of Kings, hath put on our friend a robe of honor."

And we rejoice in sharing the honor with him. For clothed in the Roman purple he has been enrolled as a member of the Pontifical Family of Pius XI, a member of the oldest and most majestic court in the world. Where once as a priest in the rank and file of God's chosen army he trod the antechambers and galleries of earth's greatest palaces, now he walks there as a member of the intimate household of the Vatican. I imagine that to us Americans so unused to the ways of European courts as we tread those famous noble halls and see their guardians spring to the salute there comes a thrill not to be experienced in our own country but recalling the marvelous unity of the Church and the respect and honor shown to those who are outwardly connected through their purple with its visible Head on earth. Those marks of respect and honor accompany the Roman purple throughout the world. And while, my dear Monsignor Stanley, the respect and affection which your people undoubtedly feel for you as a priest of God cannot be surpassed by any merely ecclesiastical dignity, yet the robe of honor which the Lord hath put upon you must of necessity bring more vividly to their hearts and minds their devoted loyalty to your supreme Chief on earth, and their closer connection with him through you who are now a member of his household. Therefore, our joy in rejoicing with you because the Lord hath put on you this robe of honor.

But He has also put about your head a crown of joy. We cannot doubt for a moment that when the servant heard fall from the lips of the Master, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant," his head was flooded with joy. Recognition is always grateful. And though we always are ready in our intimacies with God to confess our unworthiness and uselessness, nevertheless God has so made us that we accept with gratitude any sign that we at least have been faithful in our service. That sign comes to you, Monsignor, from your Archbishop whom you have served so well as his Dean, his representative in these counties of Sullivan and Ulster. I am sure that you are held in respect by the clergy of those localities—respect I am sure that is intertwined with a depth of affection in the hearts of your people, who have come to know your integrity, your sincerity, your devotion to pastoral duty, your charm of manner, simplicity of heart, dividing it with no one but God and those linked to you in God, your ideal interest in their children—all this is the crown of joy that the Lord has put about your head. Let us rejoice in it as a distant part of the diocese added to it by telling you how we rejoice in your new honor. Essentially nothing can add to the joy of the black cassock that denoted your elevation to the sacred priesthood but if anything can add to that it is the thought that your purple joins you more closely to the representative on earth of the great High Priest. We who know you will know what toll you have gone through. In the black and that augurs well for the additional toll that you will we hope for many years go through in the purple. And so in all joyous sincerity we can cry out: "The Lord hath put on him a robe of glory and put about his head a crown of joy," knowing that you will increase the beauty of that robe of glory and increase for your people and your friends that crown of joy.

St. Mary's male choir then rendered in a pleasing manner the hymn, "Ecce Panis."

Dwyer Presents Purse

James F. Dwyer, one of the trustees of St. Mary's Church, was presented and on behalf of his fellow parishioners said: "Very Reverend Monsignor Stanley, it is a great pleasure for me tonight to act as spokesman for the people of this old parish of St. Mary's. As a mark of their esteem for you and loyalty to you as their pastor they have gathered here to rejoice upon the honor that has come to you. As a concrete manifestations of their love they have commissioned me to present this check in their name. Mr. Dwyer then handed Monsignor Stanley a check for $1,800. Monsignor Stanley then arose and in words filled with deep emotion expressed his thanks to all who had taken any part in the exercises in connection with his elevation. He thanked especially Monsignor McMahon for making the trip from New York city to honor him, the priests of the deanery for their cooperation, his assistants, doctors and nurses from the Benedictine Hospital and members of the Knights of Columbus for their presence. He also thanked his parishioners, and the children of the school for the many spiritual bouquets extended to him as well as the purse raised as a token of esteem from the parish.

After the program a reception was held when all present were given an opportunity to greet the Monsignor and extend personal congratulations. Dancing followed, which was enjoyed by many present.

Seated upon the stage were: The Right Rev. Joseph H. McMahon, Ph. D., the Very Rev. John J. Stanley, V. F., the Rev. Arthur J. Quinn, the Rev. David W. Petry, the Rev. B. J. Singleton, the Rev. HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or steady passages with swelling and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of sleep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give a happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

UNION CENTER.

Union Center, Oct. 27.—The Ladies' Aid Society will serve a cafeteria supper in the chapel on Friday, October 29. A short entertainment will be given in the evening.

Sunday school is again held in the chapel Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. It is hoped the attendance will increase.

Mrs. Schnering, who spent the summer with relatives in Colorado, is at her cottage here for a few weeks before going to spend the winter with her children at Yonkers and Ridgewood, N. Y.

There now are more deer elk in Colorado than at any time since Indian days. R. G. Parnes, game and fish commissioner, estimates. Recent counts have indicated there are at least 100 deer and 35,000 elk in the state.

City Owned Lots Sold at Auction

City Clerk E. J. Dempsey sold at public auction at the city hall on Wednesday afternoon several city owned lots on Tammany street, East Chester street and Flatbush avenue. Before the sale of the lots is effective the price offered at the sale must be approved by the mayor. Owing to the fact that many of the bids were for small amounts it is likely that some of the bids will be rejected for that reason.

Bids were received for the following lots: Three lots on Tammany street, bid $25 each by Elmer Shoemaker, two lots on Tammany street, bid $25 each by Carl Fischer, a lot at Tammany street and Flatbush avenue, bid $225 by Carl G. Fischer, six lots on Tammany street, bid $100 for one six by Jack Lipschitz.

One lot at intersection of East Chester street and Flatbush avenue bid $1,050 by Morris Stone, who also bid $650 for another lot at the intersection.

Washing of Hands Before Eating an Old Ceremony

The custom of washing the hands before eating dates as far back as the beginning of formal dinner-giving. The early Egyptians, Greeks and Romans made a ceremony of washing the hands in water from small pitchers before each meal, says a writer in the Washington Star.

The Romans introduced the custom of floating fragrant flowers in the basin so the water would be pleasantly scented. In Egypt, a specially appointed servant had as his duty the anointing of the guest's head and the washing of his hands, upon his arrival in the house. The hands were washed again before leaving the table, and sometimes the ceremony was repeated several times during the progress of a long meal.

About the middle of the Fifteenth century, the finger-bowl, as we know it, probably first appeared. The use of scented water for washing the hands at table became general among the wealthy and fast-seeking classes. But unlike many faddish things, the use of the finger-bowl became as acceptable to us as to the folk who first thought of it.

The Harpsichord

The harpsichord was the predecessor of the modern piano. It went out of style about a century ago, but meanwhile such giants as Beethoven, Mozart, Bach, Couperin and others had written much music for it which over the years was played on the piano instead. The theory is that, if played on the harpsichord for which it was written, this music would have infinitely more appeal. The harpsichord is an instrument in which the strings, instead of being struck with a felt hammer as in the piano, are plucked with a tiny leather point which projects from a brass gadget that jumps up when a key is depressed. It has two keyboards and seven pedals, which give it an incredible variety of expression, timbre and flexibility.

Tahitians Swim

The Tahitians are wonderful under-water swimmers and love to swim out to their coral reefs, where magnificent under-water ferns and plants grow in profuse kinds and fantastic shapes. The Tahitians can stay under some time to gather these tropical flowers; they like to wear them in their hair. There is only one place that they are forbidden to swim. That is the Sacred Blue Grotto of the Gods near Papeete, the capital. The water here is an amazing bright blue and very beautiful. The Tahitians have been told by their medicine man that they would immediately be pulled down by a deadly swift current in this deep pool, wading to find themselves in an open field full of flowers and surrounded by beautiful peaks where the gods live.

Last King of England

The last king of England and date of his reign prior to the union of Scotland and England was Edward VI, who reigned from 1547 to 1553, but the last ruler of England during the period prior to the union of Scotland and England was Queen Elizabeth, who reigned from 1558 to 1603, notes a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer. Upon her death she was succeeded by James VI of Scotland, who became the first "British" king, and was thereafter known as James I, founder of the house of Stuart. He was the son of Mary, Queen of Scots, granddaughter of James IV and Margaret, daughter of Henry VII. He reigned as James I from 1603 to 1625. (His Scottish reign began in 1567).

First Passport Ever Issued

What is believed to be the first passport ever issued was granted in 1623 to a gentleman secretary traveling from northern Europe to Vienna. It "asks that his passage should not be held up at frontiers and customs barriers," and was given by Remigold Count of Collalto, a foreign secretary of Ferdinand II, emperor of Germany. The parchment was handed down from generation to generation in an old Viennese family.

Red Bat is a Mammal

The American red bat is a mammal and the only mammal capable of true flight. Bats are nocturnal in habit, and are among the most perfectly aerial of all animals. Locomotion other than by flight is comparatively difficult for them. Although bats can and do hibernate in cold regions, they are most abundant and attain the largest size in warm countries.

THE KEEPER OF THE BEES

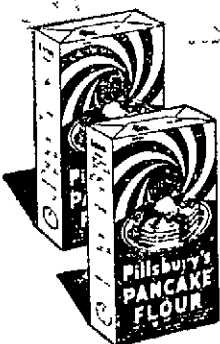

Casey Stengel, who used to lead the Brooklyn Dodgers in their antics to amuse the Flatbush fans, began studying bee psychology on learning he had been named pilot of the Boston National League Club for 1938. Here he stirs up a hive at his home at Omaha, Tex.

A DISH CLOTH is full of deceit. It may look perfectly clean and yet be a haven for millions of infection-spreading germs that can be easily transmitted to hands, dishes and glassware. The microscopic view at the right discloses a germ condition that indicates the imperative need for regular disinfection of dish cloths. The simple and efficient way is to wash dish cloths, then soak in a Clorox solution as directed on label for stain removal... an added safeguard to health. Clorox in the regular laundering process makes white cottons and linens snowy-white, sanitary. Clorox also deodorizes, disinfects and removes numerous stains—even scorch and mildew—from white and color-fast cottons and linens.

AVIATION NOW AIDS TO SPREAD GOSPEL

Missionary Takes Bibles to New Guinea Tribes.

San Francisco, Calif.—Aviation is now a definite auxiliary of missionary activities. Not only is it used in locating tribes hitherto virtually unknown but it enables missionaries to bring the gospel to them quickly, according to Rev. W. G. Turner, missionary leader of the Seventh Day Adventists for the south sea islands.

Not only that, but the use of planes makes an impression on native tribes so great that they are much more susceptible to the teachings of Christianity than usually proves the case.

Doctor Turner has been using the plane auxiliary in his missionary work in the interior of New Guinea.

The existence of the people with whom he has been working, and who number several millions, was unknown before 1931. They were discovered by white miners in search of gold.

However, the distance from seaports is so great, the jungles so impenetrable and the lack of trails so complete that aviation is virtually the only means of keeping contact with them.

The miners found them using stone axes, chipped to razor sharpness, and shells for currency.

They live at an altitude of 4,000 to 7,000 feet.

With the planes Doctor Turner and his co-workers have been able to establish 40 schools among the natives and have made great progress in reducing the language to a written basis. Most of the missionaries come from Australia and take aviation as a matter of course for reaching the interior of the Antipodes.

Doctor Turner declares that so far as is known the people are not cannibals. They are addicted to nudism, and tribal warfare is their principal pastime. They do not use poisoned arrows, but the shafts are cruelly barbed and capable of inflicting death at 200 yards.

The greatest development of an aspect of civilization among them is that they are fine gardeners and lay out large areas planted with sweet potatoes and other native vegetables.

Apparently they have no native religion.

Science Finds Samson Owed Nothing to Hair

Columbia, S. C.—People are more healthy and vivacious with their hair cut short, according to M. Kershaw Walsh, associate professor of psychology at the University of South Carolina.

The general capacity to endure is weakened when the hair grows long, and it has been shown definitely that long hair saps strength by draining vital material in the form of oil from the body, Walsh said.

"A person is in much better physical condition when his head is cropped," declared Walsh. "Hair growth on the body is no definite sign of strength, although many individuals with such growth are unusually strong."

"It is a common fallacy that the hair growth of a woman is more abundant than that of a man. We have only to look at portraits of men in King Arthur's time to glimpse the hair-growing possibilities of men."

"There was a time when men unable to grow a full-blown head of hair took to wigs. But that isn't nearly so important today. Beards and sideburns have vanished with the wigs, whether for esthetic or sanitary reasons."

"But they are not the ones who care for their hair tediously and keep it combed perfectly. Politicians—and even scientists—have followed the long-hair vogue to some extent, but not so far as the musician."

Sheepskin and Hogs

Edinburg, Ind.—Beatrice Farr Bradley went through four years at Indiana university and received an A. B. degree and two brood sows. The sows are hers as the result of a wager that she would not go through college without smoking.

Stink Bug Trade Thrives

Ottawa—Canada is building up a large European trade in stink bugs. Government entomologists here reveal that thousands of the insects, used to combat potato beetles, are shipped to European governments every year in cigar boxes.

Firefly Exerts Vast Energy in Sparkling

London, England.—The energy emitted by a symphony orchestra playing fortissimo is only one-tenth of the amperage put out by a glowworm, Sir James Jeans, famous astronomer, told members of the British Academy of Music Clubs at their annual dinner at Grosvenor house.

"I often wonder," he said, "whether in 100 or 1,000 years there will be some kind of electrical device by which someone will produce the amount of energy they want, and look back upon these days as benighted when they had to have 100 people in white shirts to do it."

Predicts Court Packing.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 28 (AP)—State Senator Lester H. Clee charged today a Democratic victory in Tuesday's New Jersey gubernatorial election "would mean the packing of the courts of this state with appointees of the Hague machine, from top to bottom."

Ceremonies Mark Ground Breaking

which should be used for free schools.

In 1773 the trustees were seeking to buy, build or rent a building for higher educational purposes. They bought the building at the corner of Crown and John streets and established a school. This was in 1774.

Two years before the Declaration of Independence was signed this institution was burned by the British in 1777 under General Vaughn. From the ashes of that burned building the spirit of education arose brighter, and culminated in the establishment of old Kingston Academy, which was chartered in 1795 by the Regents.

This was in the years of the second administration of Washington. During the 120 years that passed since that day Kingston Academy stood for good educational facilities, producing men of character and of prominence in the state and nation.

It was until 1915 that this historic old academy stood and it was in that year that the Kingston High School was completed and occupied with Kingston Academy and Ulster Academy being consolidated into one high school and under one roof.

About 15 years later 14 rooms were added and the manual arts building erected. Today we are building to meet the congestion in certain grade schools and in the high school.

We are building to meet modern trends in education. As we excavate the soil and blast the rocks for a foundation I trust a building will be constructed which will be a credit to our city and a satisfaction to our citizens. It has been the work of long days and nights of much judgment and thought. We feel that at last we have come into a land flowing with education milk and honey."

Mayor Heiselman Speaks.

Mayor Heiselman spoke briefly and said that the building for which ground was being broken today marked the culmination of considerable planning and thought on the part of the members of the Board of Education who had devoted of their time and energy to make the event of today a reality.

Prayer and Benediction

Following the mayor's talk Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel led in a word of prayer, and the exercises closed with the singing of "Alma Mater" led by the high school band and the pronouncing of the benediction by the Very Rev. Monsignor John J. Stanley, pastor of St. Mary's Church and Dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties.

Two Catskill Men Hurt in Crash

Catskill, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Two Catskill men were in Greene County Memorial Hospital today with burns and injuries suffered last night when Police Captain Harry DuBois said, their sedan crashed into the rear of a parked truck and caught fire. They were William Cairns 43, and James Weber, 19.

ST. REMY

St. Remy, Oct. 28.—Sunday services will be: Sunday School at 1:30; preaching by the pastor, the Rev. C. P. Mayskens, at 2:30 o'clock.

The public is invited to the chicken supper this evening at the church.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the fire department will hold a Halloween party at the fire house on Monday evening. A pot luck dinner will be served. Ladies are asked to come masked. The firemen are invited as guests.

Mrs. K. Kirk and friend of New York city were week-end guests of the Ellsworth family.

Mrs. Ella Kohler, Mrs. R. Ivory, Mrs. P. Crosswell and daughters, Elsie and Florence, of Kingston, called on Mrs. Kathryn Sutton on Tuesday.

Increase in Exports

Washington, Oct. 28 (AP)—Larger shipments of agricultural products were the main factor in a substantial increase in exports during September, the commerce department said today. Exports aggregated $296,729,000, an increase of 7 per cent over August and 35 per cent over September, last year. Imports aggregated $233,361,000 in September. The nation thus sold $63,368,000 more than it bought abroad.

Democrats to Rally

This evening a Democratic rally will be held at 8 o'clock in St. Mary's Hall on North street. Leading candidates will speak.

Montague's Future Growing Dimmer

Hollywood, Oct. 28 (AP)—John Montague's future in the movies and radio, seemingly destined for great heights only yesterday, reached a sudden impasse today. The character role he was to have enacted in Paramount's "The Badge of Policeman O'Roon," starring Monty's pal, Bing Crosby, probably will go to someone else. His title role in another picture, built around the legendary figure of the North Woods country, Paul Bunyan, similarly has been crossed out by the studio. The studio indicated it would go ahead with a series of golfing shorts showing how Montague shoots in the 60's. Studio officials said they knew nothing of reports that the New York organization, controlling forces in the movie industry, objected to Montague—acquitted Tuesday night in Ellzabethtown, N. Y., of a seven-year-old robbery charge—appearing in pictures. Sponsors of Crosby's weekly radio program said reports that Montague would appear as a guest artist were "wholly without foundation. We have never given Montague's appearance any consideration," said J. H. Kraft, advertising director of Kraft Phonograph Records Corp. Montague is due here Saturday for a conference with Everett Crosby, Bing's brother, about his professional career.

Favors Change in Sheriffs Term Law

A discussion of the constitutional amendment to permit sheriffs to succeed themselves, which will be submitted to the voters at the coming election, will be broadcast tonight by Richard J. Lewis, president of the New York State Sheriffs Association, of which Sheriff Polynaux is one of the trustees. President Lewis will be heard over Station WGY, Schenectady, from 9:30 to 9:40 tonight. The executive committee of the Prison Association of New York, following a recent meeting, has issued a letter urging voters to support the amendment. They hold that the rapid overturn of incumbents of sheriffs offices in the state, under the present law, endangers the continuity of policy or service where it exists on high or satisfactory levels. The committee says that a high sense of morale is impossible of maintenance where there is insecurity in office and the knowledge that changes in personnel are mandatory at the expiration of a sheriff's term. They claim that an amendment permitting sheriffs to succeed themselves would result in a saving of the taxpayers' money.

Flood at Cumberland.
Cumberland, Md., Oct. 28 (AP)—Flood waters washed into low-lying streets in this city of 40,000 today as the Potomac river climbed more than a foot above flood stage. More than 120 families in mining towns above here already had been driven from their homes. Torrential rains of the past 24 hours and recent snows caused the river to rise more than a foot an hour. Wills Creek, which sent nine feet of water into the business district in 1936, reached the danger stage early today.

Protest Strike in Belgrade.
Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Oct. 28 (AP)—The capital's commercial and domestic life was disrupted without warning when most of the shops and stores closed this morning in a protest strike. Merchants were demonstrating against the government's extension of licenses to Belgrade's two department stores.

The Hudson River Baptist Church will hold its annual turkey supper on Friday night from 5 to 11 o'clock, at the Odd Fellows' Hall, 103 Cornell street. The public is invited.

Japanese Victories Hold World's Attention Today

(By The Associated Press)
Major Japanese victories in the Chinese theater of war held world attention today while Premier Mussolini's outspoken approval, in Rome, of Germany's colonial ambitions was given serious thought by observers looking into the future.

The Japanese appeared well on their way to achieving their aims in China, even as nine-power treaty signatories prepared for a conference in Brussels on some means of bringing about an amicable settlement of the Asiatic conflict. On the Shanghai front, the Japanese after weeks of battle finally have driven back the Chinese to new defense lines beyond Chapel, native north of the international settlement. American marines and British troops offered to aid a lone Chinese battalion, trapped in Chapel, but they refused—and fought from warehouses, facing almost certain death. Widespread fighting extended along the battle line running northwest of Shanghai through captured Tazang as the Japanese struggled to break the Chinese grip on Shanghai.

In North China, where Japan already has conquered a vast area, the army command reported its mechanized units had smashed through historic Nantekwan Pass from Hopeh Province, capturing Peking and advancing to within 65 miles of Tientsin, capital of Shansi Province. That the final hour of the doomed battalion was at hand seemed certain when a Japanese navy spokesman declared that Japanese bluejackets would mop up all scattered Chinese units in Chapel.

Crowds of hero-worshipping Chinese who flocked to the settlement side of the creek to cheer their fighting countrymen declared they were the remnants of a battalion of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Eighty-eighth Army which had held the North Station Citadel 75 days against Japanese attacks. Proud Chinese officials said the besieged warriors all were under 30 years old and came from every province in China. "They are fully representative of heroic China's new fighting spirit," said one.

A number of foreigners attempted to send bundles of food to the battalion but the attempts were not successful. Somehow, the unit obtained supplies of rice, hardtack and tea and sent back word that it would stick to the last man. As a precaution against casualties, police roped off three blocks inside the settlement, within a block of busy Nanking road. Three Chinese were struck by stray bullets as spectators watched the battle. The rooftop watchers saw the doomed battalion keep Japanese bluejackets at a respectful distance with hand grenades.

Climax Seen Soon
As the Chapel struggle apparently approached a climax, death and destruction on a grander scale continued beyond the settlement's borders. Japanese warplanes bombed Chinese defenses along the new line stretching north from the western border of the settlement. Even with relentless bombardments, the Japanese army's right wing was unable to crack defenses of Nantekwan, eight miles west and north of Shanghai. Japan's troops poised for a new thrust against Chinese who took up positions among the foreign properties. At Hungjiao some foreign military observers said the area was in danger of becoming another Chapel.

With the shift of the battlefield from northern to western environs of the city, western edges of the International Settlement and the French concession became a new danger zone. Hungjiao residents evacuated to the settlement, and foreigners in the settlement danger zone were advised to stay indoors. Foreign military experts expected Japanese to use artillery, air bombs, or both to blast into the doomed Chapel detachment. Bursting bombs or shells would endanger anyone in the marine sector, only 50 yards away across Soochow creek. The marines are under orders to shoot in self-defense at any airplane attacking them or non-combatants. A blood-red sun, symbolic of Japan's victorious war banners, burst through the smoke and haze over Shanghai to light up an awesome spectacle. It showed the destruction and death in the wake of a terrifying pandemic—a city in flames, a defeated, but unconquered army, and children fleeing from Japanese troops and from fire which devoured homes in Chapel and the western countryside.

Chinese Planes in Raid
Adding to the rush of gruesome events, Chinese planes carried out one raid over Japanese positions, and Japanese warships engaged in an artillery duel with Chinese batteries in Pootung, just across the Whangpoo river from Shanghai.

Spirals of smoke rose from burned ruins of Chapel, but major fires were quenched by Japanese bluejackets and settlement firemen. Fires still raged west of Shanghai, with dense, billowing clouds hanging like a curtain between Chapel and the new battlefield. Hope of ending the conflict by diplomatic means was measurably reduced, Chinese Foreign Minister Mr. Wang Chung-hui declared at Nanking, by Japanese refusal to attend the Brussels nine-power conference called for November 2. "The refusal confirms our belief that Japan is not going to abandon her policy of aggression unless compelled to do so by measures more effective than moral persuasion on the part of interested powers," he said.

Japan's Shanghai victories were matched by her North China Army, which broke through Nantekwan Pass and captured Peking, important city in Shansi Province. Do-hard Chinese detachments in Chapel, which main Chinese forces evacuated yesterday in a retreat to defense lines farther west, peppered Japanese with machine gun bullets.

Fired on British
British officers disclosed that Major General A. P. D. Telford-Sumner, commander of British forces at Shanghai, and a group of officers were endangered when a Japanese tank fired in their direction as they watched refugees evacuating across Soochow creek. The Chinese had dynamited Chungshan bridge, making center spans impassable except for one or two persons at a time. Suddenly a Japanese whiplike tank sprayed the bridge with machine gun bullets.

bullets, killing a Chinese woman. Bullets came close to the group of British officers. At dawn, British troops guarding the sector near St. John's University opened barred wire gates and permitted several thousand refugees who had camped in open fields all night to stream into the settlement. A tour through Chapel disclosed the destruction which followed yesterday's fire and 75 days of battle. Among the piles of broken bricks and charred timbers, Japanese cremated many of their dead last night and gathered up the ashes for burial in the homeland. No bodies were seen in the ruined streets. British Tommies who watched the fighting through their block-house peepholes said a lone Chinese machinegunner held up Japanese for nearly an hour at one point. He battled against attack by machine gun and grenade detachments until he was blown to bits by an explosion. Dozens of similar engagements through Chapel accounted for the 700 Chinese dead.

Prohibition Fight.
Pittsburgh, Oct. 28 (AP)—Rep. John J. Cochran (D) of St. Louis, Mo., warned the nation's leading brewers that today, five years after repeal, they must face the threat of a new prohibition fight. Addressing the annual convention of the United States Brewers Association last night, Cochran declared that organizations representing public welfare were complaining that all is not well in the distribution and retail end of the beer trade.

Well, anyhow, the point has been driven home that membership in the Ku Klux Klan is not the best way to get a judicial job.

CONCRETE PAVEMENTS

SAVE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN TAXES

CONCRETE roads are reducing the cost of highway upkeep by millions of dollars every year. Here are two typical examples, taken from official highway department reports, showing costs per mile per year for surface maintenance of various types of pavement:

ILLINOIS—1921-1935
CONCRETE	$ 80.64
Material A	171.99
Material B	185.92
Material C	209.53
Material D	226.30
Material E	337.67

NEW YORK—1923-1935
CONCRETE	$151.74
Material F	352.75
Material G	381.02
Material H	551.88
Material I	656.52
Material J	728.57
Material K	757.00

(Materials F, G, H, not used in Illinois. Materials A and D not used in New York.)

Official reports from all states which publish comparable data show that surface maintenance averages $88 to $465 less per mile per year for concrete than for other pavements.

Concrete saves other millions annually for motorists and business men in the cost of operating cars and trucks.

And safe, comfortable concrete actually costs less in the first place than other pavements of equal load carrying capacity.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Glamor on the hoof runs into money in Hollywood. The sheer silk stockings that sheathes a shapely calf is the most expensive single item in a screen star's wardrobe. The girls figure they spend from $50 to $65 on silk stockings for each pair of shoes... and shoes don't last very long either. A glamor girl of the film would as soon do a Lady Godiva on the Boulevard as appear in public with a run in her stockings. The annual season brings greatest hosiery worries. Betty Davis, during this time, never wears a pair of hosiery more than twice because she's afraid of runs. When she steps out formally in lace-toed chignon hose, she carries a set of spares in her evening bag—and she's not the only one. Kary Francis is particular about hosiery color, selecting stockings for harmony as carefully as she does a hat. Our wardrobe spies report the Francis stocking supply unusually large because she insists they match the color scheme of both shoes and dress. Rough-on-hose John Blondell, a lively tomboy as a kid, snags, pulls, or tears an average of three pairs a week. Olivia de Havilland counts hosiery her big extravagance, like the lady kind for evening and tissue-sheer chignons for daytime. Jewish emigration from Germany since Adolf Hitler came to power in 1933 totals 93,000 persons, according to the Jewish Agency. Of the total, 38,500 Jews have gone to Palestine.

Broadway: "The Life of the Party." A group of the humor producing people of stage and screen get together in this mad musical that starts and ends in a brisk, laughable and entertaining fashion. The songs will draw a lot of laughs and the antics of the comedians is for the most part very funny. The cast includes Victor Moore, Helen Broderick, Gene Raymond, Harriet Hilliard, Gene Raymond, Joe Miller, Parkyakarus and Ann Miller.

Kingston: "Over the Goal" and "Hideaway." Double features continue on the Kingston screen, the first a football story with Johnny Davis, June Travis and Mabel Dodd; the other a melodrama of law against lawlessness with the veteran Fred Stone in the starring assignment. Orpheum: "Red Rope." A movie version of a legionnaire on a party constitutes the opening feature at the Orpheum, a riotous and gay picture with Bob Armstrong and Lyle Talbot featured. "The Red Rope" is the other attraction, a western melodrama with Bob Steele in the stirrups.

Tomorrow
Broadway: Same.
Kingston: "The Bride Wore Red." New and zesty and elaborately produced, Joan Crawford's latest romantic comedy is one of her best efforts in a long time, thanks to a well staged story plus the capable support of Franchot Tone and Robert Young. Here is the laughable and tricky story of a girl who sets her matrimonial net for a millionaire and gets him after much labor and anxiety. The lines are cleverly written, the musical score is unusually effective and Miss Crawford is at her dramatic best in this sophisticated play. A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production directed by Dorothy Arzner. Others in the cast are Billie Burke and Reginald Owen. Orpheum: "Trunk Off the Moon" and "Cherokee Kid." The

It takes 12 people to make you a perfect cup of coffee

- 1 The planter, whose high altitude soil alone yields that mellow mountain-bean flavor.
- 2 The patient native, whose fingers perform so many of the hand operations on those precious berries.
- 3 The ship captain, whose special skill and knowledge bring the valuable coffee cargo thousands of miles to port in the best of condition.
- 4 The Beech-Nut buyer who thoroughly checks each lot of green coffee for absolute uniformity.
- 5 The Beech-Nut blender whose subtle blending with a large proportion of mountain coffee begins the actual flavor making process.
- 6 The cup-taster who checks the blend (uniformity, you see).
- 7 The skilled roaster who develops the celebrated flavor and aroma; working to within exact minutes of time and exact degrees of temperature and color. All checked again and again by...
- 8 the cup-taster who now constantly tests individual roasts for "cupping quality." And back of these constant tests...
- 9 the coffee chemist. Every day he assembles coffee samples, charts, reports; watches to see if a fine coffee cannot be made even finer.
- 10 The grinder. A meticulous process here. Checked by hourly granulation samples!
- 11 The vacuum packer, who has the justly famous coffee flavor high-vacuum sealed within 20 minutes after roasting.
- 12 The grocer. A man of good judgment who offers you a coffee whose flavor is the glory of hundreds of years of coffee development.

A school teacher, after examination of the pupils in her class by the school nurse, wrote the following note to the parents of a certain little boy:

"Your boy, Charles, shows signs of astigmatism. Will you please investigate and take steps to correct it."

The next morning she received a reply from the boy's father, who wrote:

"I don't exactly understand what Charlie has done, but I have walloped him tonight and you can wallop him tomorrow. That ought to help some."

The Busy Bee

A bumble-bee in a clover field, Was busy gathering sweets, It hummed a plain and simple tune,

While busy with the bees, As the bee was flitting 'mongst the blooms,

A dog came on the scene, A vicious, mangy, lop-eared cur, With disposition mean,

In the business of the bumble-bee, He mixed, as the story goes, Till the creature turned from its quest of sweets,

And lit on the old dog's nose, 'Tis hard to tell, unless you know,

Just how a simple touch, Upon a tender spot like that, Can hurt so very much,

This lesson from the dog and bee, Now seems to be complete, Don't meddle with the business end

Of things you chance to meet. Some of us who have neither the time nor inclination for fishing can still be interested in the sit-down strike stuff, provided it involves a pretty girl on our lap.

The teacher was testing the knowledge of the kindergarten class. Snapping a half dollar on the desk, she said sharply, "What is that?"

Instantly a voice from the back row, "Tails."

We don't believe the scheme would always work. "I know a place where it doesn't cost much to eat," said the Irishman. "Let's go," replied the Scotchman.

After eating, the Irishman talked with the cashier so long she forgot whether or not he had paid her. "Did you pay me?" she asked. "Sure," was his reply.

The Scotchman looked on, then talked to himself. "Did you pay me?" the cashier finally asked. "Sure," he answered. "I've just been waiting for my change."

It is true that history has a habit of repeating itself, but not nearly so often as the average radio joke.

First Gaffer—That was a fine drive you made this morning. Second Gaffer—Which one do you mean?

First Gaffer—Oh, you know—that time you hit the ball.

Judge—What possible excuse did you have for acquitting that woman of killing her husband? Foreman of Jury—Insanity. Judge—What, all 12 of you?

The bride of a few weeks noticed that her husband was depressed. "Gerald, dearest," she said, "I know something is troubling you, and I want you to tell me what it is; your worries are not your worries now, they are our worries."

"Oh, very well," he said. "We've just had a letter from a girl in New York, and she's suing us for breach of promise."

Joe—There goes a fellow who chased around for years trying to land a political job. Moe—Well, what does he do now?

Joe—Nothing, he got the job.

Big Republican Rally Tonight In Auditorium

A big Republican rally to be addressed by both state and local speakers will be held this evening at 8:15 o'clock in the municipal auditorium on Broadway under the auspices of the Republican County Central Committee.

The speakers for the evening will be former Senator George R. Fearon of Syracuse, Lewis K. Rockefeller, the Republican candidate for congress. They will both discuss questions regarding Republican national politics.

Mayor Heiselman and Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk will discuss the local majority campaign, and Attorney Matthew V. Cahill, the Republican candidate for city judge, will speak.

No Democratic Plan, Says Mayor

had expected to be present at the rally but at the last minute had been unavoidably detained and that he would speak briefly on Mr. Cahill's qualifications for the office he sought. His honesty, integrity and experience fitted Matt Cahill for the office of city judge and there was no question but that on November 2 he would be swept into office in the Republican landslide that day.

Schwenk Speaks

Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk, who was present, was called on and spoke briefly regarding the election of the entire ticket. He said that those present knew the record of the administration during the past four years and what it had accomplished for the good of the entire city. The only issue before the voters was one of whether they desired a continuance of good government or not.

Supervisor Leifrey urged the election of the entire ticket and especially urged his hearers not to forget to elect the local candidates for alderman and supervisor of the Fourth ward. He said that he could not make it plain enough that the reason he had not sought to be a candidate to succeed himself was due entirely to his health and that his physician had advised him not to run for political office this fall. However, he wanted to assure all who heard him that he was back of Bill Barnett and Walter Lukaszewski, the candidates for supervisor and alderman of the ward.

The "Mae West Stretch" is the name given to a portion of the highway between Melbourne and Warburton, Australia, because it has so many curves. This was revealed to the Transport Board by an applicant for a road transport license.

NEXT YEAR'S CAR FOR MR. AND MRS. AMERICA

The 1938 auto models went on show at Grand Central Palace in New York with lots of dazzle and more gadgets and chrome plate than you could shake a stick at. Serious side of the show is the impression it will create on Mr. and Mrs. America's pocketbook, autos supply labor for steel, cotton, rubber, glass and many other industries.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Oct. 28—The first big step in the construction of the new town hall was made on Tuesday when the town snow truck and another truck moved the fire truck from its original location to the other side of the Mower's Meat Market building. It took the better part of the afternoon for the actual moving of the building and traffic was blocked for a short time. The fire engines will be housed in the building until the completion of the new building.

Mrs. Emily Sexton returned on Tuesday to her home in New Jersey after a short stay in her Woodstock cottage.

The piano quartet in C Minor by Brahms was played by Joseph Olson, violin member of the Rochester Philharmonic and formerly connected with the Minneapolis Symphony. Robert Rudler, violin, a pupil of Adolf Betti, and a member of the National Orchestra in New York. William Ames, piano professor at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, and George Finckel, cello, already known to his Woodstock audience.

Planets and Norse Gods Gave Names to Week Days

The week was unknown to the ancients. It was gradually adopted under the later Roman emperors, with the growth of Christianity and under the influence of the seven day creation of Genesis.

It was a principle of the ancient astrology that seven heavenly bodies presided in succession over the hours of the day. The seven so credited were the sun, the moon, Mars, Mercury, Jupiter, Venus and Saturn.

From these observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the Latin designations given to the days of the week have been directly derived, and from the Latin names, in turn have been chiefly formed the modern names used in various countries—either by literal translation or, as in the Teutonic tongue, by the substitution of the corresponding deity of the northern paganism for the Latin god.

Sunday is derived from "sunnandæg," day of the sun, the first day of the week having been dedicated to the sun by the pagans. Monday is derived from "monandæg," day of the moon.

Tuesday, "tuesdayæg," from "Tiw," the god of war.

Wednesday, "wodnesdæg," from Odin, the god of storms.

Thursday, "thunresdæg," day of Thor, the god of thunder.

Friday, "friggdæg," day of Freya, goddess of marriage.

Saturday, "saterdæg," Latin, "Dies Saturnus," day of Saturn, the god of time.

Many Legends Concerning Origin of Fairy Crosses

According to Stimpson's "Nuggets of Knowledge," fairy crosses are crystals of staurolite, a dark silicate of aluminum and iron. They are found in Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Georgia, Virginia and a few have been reported in Minnesota and other states. Although the best specimens are perhaps found in Patrick county, Virginia, they are more abundant in other localities, particularly Fannin county, Georgia. Nearly perfect crosses have been found, but most of them must be trimmed to some extent.

There are various legends among the Blue Ridge mountaineers concerning the origin of these crosses. The legend from which they receive their name is as follows:

When Jesus was crucified, elfin messengers carried the news to all parts of the world. When the tidings reached the faires in the Blue Ridge mountains, they began to weep and as they wept the tears fell upon the earth and crystallized into little pebbles, on which was formed a beautiful cross.

A dust storm is like a giant sieve, according to the Soil Conservation Service. It sifts out the lighter, richer soil particles and often carries them for hundreds of miles, leaving the poorer, less fertile grains to skip and roll along the ground surface or pile up as dunes.

STUBBORN RHEUMATISM

Your pharmacist will tell you that the chances are your stubborn rheumatism, sciatica, neuritis or rheumatic gout is caused or aggravated by excess uric acid or other circulating poisons. That being the case, he will also tell you that one swift, powerful and safe formula is Allenbur's Uric Acid Formula. It is a powerful uric acid solvent, breaks up the terrible pain and gives you relief in 45 hours—ask any druggist in America for Allenbur's Uric Acid Formula. It is the only uric acid solvent that does not get rid of the uric acid, softens and loosens it. Adv.

ELECT BERNARD A. CULLOTON MAYOR

The Administration's Board of Water Commissioners, the Administration's Own Alderman and the Administration's Own Official Mouth-piece, The Daily Freeman, Prove Judge Culloton, Democratic Candidate for Mayor, Spoke the Truth When He Said Water Rates Have Been Increased.....

Was It An Increase? Water Board Says YES

From the Water Board minutes of a special meeting on February 9, 1937:

"Motion made by Mr. Hildebrandt, seconded by Mr. Groves, to INCREASE the annual water rate on the first faucet from the present rate of $4.00 to $6.00, to become effective April 1, 1937. Carried."

Was It An Increase? Daily Freeman Says YES

The Kingston Freeman on March 27, 1937, printed the following announcement:

"The Board of Water Commissioners announced today that it has decided to reestablish the rate which was in effect prior to July 1, 1935, when the water rates were reduced $2 a year. Under the old scale which goes into effect on April 1, the cost of the first faucet will be $6 a year instead of $4, which makes an INCREASE on each water bill of $2 a year. It is estimated that this will INCREASE the revenue of the water department approximately $12,000 a year.

Was It An Increase? Republican Alderman Says YES

Reporting a meeting of the Common Council on April 6, 1937, the Kingston Freeman, on April 7th, said:

The INCREASE of $2 a year in the city's water rate by the Board of Water Commissioners was protested vigorously at the Tuesday evening's meeting of the Common Council, and at first it looked as though the aldermen would vote on a resolution protesting the rate, but an adjournment was taken when it was found there was no written resolution before the council. * * *

"This is a poor time to raise water rates," said †Alderman Zucca, "when you consider the fact that with the old rate in force there were still a number of water consumers who were delinquent in their water taxes as they did not have the money to pay." If that were true, he said, how could they be expected to pay this increase?

"I am glad that Alderman Zucca brought up this matter of water rates," said *Alderman Epstein, "and speaking as a taxpayer I want to say that this raise of $2 a year is not fair. If Alderman Zucca offers a resolution protesting the raise, I will gladly second it."

†Alderman Zucca is the Republican alderman from the First Ward.

*Alderman Epstein is the alderman from the Sixth Ward and now is Democratic candidate for alderman-at-large.

Burial Plot Decision
Albany, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—A cemetery lot in which no burial has been made may be sold at public auction to satisfy a valid judgment, the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court has ruled. The order directs the county sheriff to sell a cemetery lot here to satisfy a judgment for an unpaid balance on a mausoleum.

In spite of the notable foreign examples, we're not yet convinced that it's parades, salutes, and oratory that makes the world go round.

CROWD JOYFUL AS MONTAGUE IS FREED

John Montague, legendary Hollywood golfer and pal of stars, shown being carried out of the court room at Elizabethtown, N. Y., where he was tried and acquitted by a jury of mountain men in the seven-year-old holdup of a roadhouse at Upper Jay, nearby. County Judge Harry E. Owen told the jury the verdict was not in accord with his views, but said "that is up to you."

Dutto's Car Recovered
Louis Dutto reported to the police department shortly after 10 o'clock last night that his Studebaker sedan had been stolen from near 304 Clinton avenue. About half an hour later the car was found abandoned on the Boulevard by Officers Urban Healey and Barnmann in one of the radio cars.

Does Divine Cult Own Elverhoj?

not been paid in full, then the party named in the deed was to take possession of the Heckman property without further delay.

The action on file also alleges that after delivery of the deed and without the consent of the plaintiff, Bechar, the defendant, Heckman, or his wife, instructed Nardone not to record the deed which had been prepared and also refused to carry out the terms of the agreement.

The complaint filed charged that Rodwell had knowledge of the existence of the contract between Bechar and Heckman, at the time the deed to Rodwell was given and the plaintiff, Bechar, asks the court to set aside the deed of conveyance from Heckman to Rodwell, and asks that the defendant, Rodwell, be restrained from taking possession of the premises pending determination of the action.

In the contract between Bechar and Heckman the loan mentioned is $2,000 and it states that the sum of $700 is to be used to pay taxes, interest and insurance and that the sum of $200 is to be paid in cash to Heckman and that $200 is to be held in escrow toward payment of judgments which may now be held against the premises and for payment of taxes, interest or insurance which may come due during the three-year period during which the agreement is in force.

Possession Provision.
The agreement recites that at the end of three years and on payment of the $2,000 the party of the first part is to redeem the premises to the party of the second part, Heckman. In the event the loan is not paid Bechar takes possession.

By one of the clauses in the agreement Heckman agrees not to sell or transfer the premises within three years, except that during the last three months of the agreement he may enter into a contract of sale, unless the party of the first part, Bechar, agrees to the transfer.

One of the clauses which may have given rise to the Father Divine suspicion is that in the agreement between Heckman and Bechar the premises is to remain in the possession of the owner, Heckman, and he agrees not to lease, sub-let or permit colored people to occupy the premises.

Whether or not the premises is to be occupied by followers of Father Divine in the future, the residents of Milton are being kept busy attempting to solve the problem of whether or not a follower of the Harlem evangelist would be a desirable neighbor?

Old Autographs in Cave

Practically all of the exploring of Mammoth cave, Kentucky, before the Civil war was done by the use of reed torches and homemade tallow candles. In those days it was a practice of the visitors who were taking routes through the cave to tie their candles on walking canes and smoke their names on the walls and ceiling of the cave. At one place in the cave this practice was carried on so extensively that it has been named Register hall. Here many of the dates are a century and a quarter old.

Fingers for Forks

The old rule that fingers were made before forks holds good in Morocco. Soups and stews there are dipped up with bread and chicken and meats are torn apart with the fingers. A meal at the palace of a Moorish pasha may consist of as many as 12 courses, mostly of fowl and lamb. Pigeon may be served in a very light pastry, chicken in a thick stew, or with stuffing. Double pancakes with a little honey inside them, vermicelli and lamb served in a variety of ways make up the rest of the meal, which may be topped off with tea.

Ionian Singers Open Concert Season With An Unusual Program

The Ionian Singers, a group of four beautifully balanced voices, opened Kingston's winter concert season at the high school auditorium last night. It would be difficult to say which aspect of the program pleased the large audience the more, for all the numbers were heartily applauded.

The evening of conspicuously worth-while music was devoted to presenting the best of male-voice music that has been forgotten because of the long standing idea that male vocal groups had to present the ballads of the day.

The men sang in an informal manner as if to a group of friends. The voices were well attuned to one another with a resulting warm, round, organ-like tone. Six groups of songs constituted the program, besides numerous, unscheduled numbers requested by the admiring audience. Particularly fine effects were achieved with tenor solos against the trio modulations.

In the first group which was made up of folk tunes of the 17th and 18th centuries, the Scottish border ballad, "The Hundred Pipers" deserved considerable mention. The wailing of the bag pipes and the usual uneven drone were as much like the instrument, dear to the hearts of the Scots, as a human voice could be. The romantic serenade of Saint Saens, "Serenade d'Amour", in the second group, displayed the unusual and varying degrees of color that are within the grasp of these singers. In response to their hearty applause after this group, they gave as encore a Finnish folk song arranged especially for them by Catherine Davis.

The third group was sung with piano accompaniment by Elvin Schmitt, who also accompanied the singers in the last group. The a-cappella singing, however, was preferred. In the "Slovakian Folk Song" of Deems Taylor and "Silent Strings" by Granville.

Bantock, the intonation and sensitive restraint of each individual further showed that music lovers in the audience were listening to a rare performance. It is unusual to find so many perfect qualities in group a-cappella work as were manifest last night.

Mr. Schmitt's piano solos made up group four. His interpretations were full of satisfying ideas of tone color and virtuosity. He also responded with an encore.

Group five was again sung a-cappella, an American group, and included the work of Mac Dowell, De Brant, Mac Ginsey and Malin. An encore was granted here in "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes". The final group rounded out the program with the familiar "Beautiful Dreamer" of Stephen Foster and "A Spill Flower" by Campbell Tipton. As a final encore the singers returned with a humorous number. Several places on the program these light, clever little pieces appeared and were sung with as much grace and delightful interpretation as were the more serious numbers.

The first of the series of concerts brought to Kingston by the Cooperative Concert Association offered an agreeable change from the usual concert repertoire and augurs much for the rest of the series.

Mrs. Schoonmaker also discussed the advanced ideas on social reform and the prominence women play in public life in the Scandinavian countries and Czechoslovakia. Decorations of the supper table were in keeping with the Halloween season. Following the meeting, the members spent a social evening playing Halloween games. There will be no supper meeting next Wednesday. Instead, the club will join with the Newburgh club at its meeting on Tuesday. Cars will leave the Y. W. C. A. at 5:30 p. m.

Many at Lecture on Flower Arrangement

The Ulster County Home Bureau sponsored another of its interesting lectures on Tuesday afternoon when Miss Lucille Smith of the College of Agriculture of Cornell University demonstrated the arrangement of fall flowers and the use in a floral arrangement of holly berries, bitter sweet, dried grasses, grey stemmed dog wood and such.

Six different set ups for table decorations were shown. As chrysanthemums are more easily attainable at this time of year, they were used to a great extent. One formal arrangement of roses was shown while the other arrangements were informal and suitable for informal dinner parties. Not only did Miss Smith set up her arrangements for table centers, but she illustrated the type of flowers used on a table against a wall, kitchen tables, and other places which the housewife finds more difficult to decorate. Several of the members present had brought flowers which they were finding difficult to arrange. Miss Smith answered their questions and suggested ways to overcome the difficulties.

One of the points stressed by Miss Smith was that the arrangement of flowers is comparable to music. Music can be noise or a thing of beauty depending on the harmony. So, too, in flower arrangements, there should be a harmony of line and color.

The meeting was attended by representatives from all over the county.

Today, the Home Bureau is sponsoring an all day session on becoming hair styles, which will stress the educational fact that personality can be expressed with a proper and becoming hairdress. Friday morning at 10 o'clock, there will be a meeting for all concerned with the program on pneumonia control. Among those present will be Dr. Edward S. Rogers of Albany, director of the Bureau of Pneumonia Control, Dr. Fred H. Voss, president of the Ulster County Medical Society; Mrs. Birdsell Taber, Ulster County Home Bureau health leader; Mrs. David Crowell, chairman of the health committee of the New York State Federation of Home Bureaus, Miss Marion Irving, assistant supervisor of the Eastern district and Miss Mildred Ploss and Miss Everette Parsons of the local Home Bureau department. The purpose of Friday's meeting is to discuss plans for lessons on the care of pneumonia in the home.

First Meeting of Atharhacton

Atharhacton held its first meeting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Hamilton Boyd on St. James street. The meeting was conducted by Miss Ethel M. Hull, president. Following a short business meeting Mrs. Boyd spoke on "The Years," a post-war novel by Virginia Woolf. Preceding the business meeting the hostess served tea. Mrs. Carlton Preston will entertain the club next week at the Huntington on Pearl street.

Connected with Mr. Fuller is Eugene Pelham, noted for his paintings. Best of luck was the wish of the group.

Entertained After Concert

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Chambers of Pearl street were hosts to 16 of their friends at a buffet supper last evening following the concert by the Ionian Singers at the high school auditorium.

Buffalo on Right-of-Way

Revive Wild West Days
Clayton, N. M.—The unusual sight of buffalo roaming along a railroad right-of-way near here caused trainmen to bat their eyes in amazement. Motorists also reported seeing the animals.

Clayton officers and cowhands went to the scene and pursued the beasts to two automobiles. When they approached too close the animals turned and charged. Screaming auto horns caused them to turn tail and fee again.

Ivan Shoemaker, brand inspector, quit the motor chase and got a horse. The horse on sighting the buffalo ran in the opposite direction. George Divers, cowboy, lassoed one of the beasts, but it snapped his rope. Shoemaker threw the next loop and his rope went to shreds. Ike Cochran, top-hand cowpuncher, finally made a catch that held.

Or suppose your date toasts you with this flattering verse: "Rose's red, violet's blue Sugar is sweet—but not like you. Violet fades, roses fall; But you get sweeter, all in all."

Reply in a Southern drawl: "May Dixie's skies forever smile On such a flatterin' honey chile." At parties be the center of attention with this one: "Here's to our best friends: The ones who know the worst about us, but refuse to believe it."

Or are jokes going round? Tell about little Sandy who walked home behind the street car to save a nickel. Papa Sandy said, "Hoot mon! Next time walk behind a bus and save a dime."

"Wrestling Fish" Spurn Hooks, but Like to Tussle

Ranger, Tex.—A river of "wrestling fish" is described by W. McGlothlin, of Ranger, Texas.

McGlothlin said while he was on a trip to the Big Bend section of Texas and to Old Mexico he saw a group of men and boys one morning fashion a seine from gunny sacks and begin dragging the Rio Grande river. The Ranger man previously had fished the same place with hook and line without success.

The seiners, however, caught more than 400 pounds of edible catfish in a few minutes—a remarkable catch for the Rio Grande. "The natives told us," said McGlothlin, "that these fish will not bite hooks. They are called 'wrestling fish' and just love a good hand-to-hand fight. They bite, kick and butt, and a recuperative power enables them to live several hours buried in the ground."

As a result of the President's anti-war speech, we may have, as a diplomat would say, a reorientation on the Orient.

CALIFORNIA RAISES BIG COTTON CROPS

Grow Long Staple Variety in San Joaquin Valley

Fresno, Calif.—Just as rich Imperial valley as "discovered" with the development of irrigation, so is the extensive San Joaquin valley of California becoming the garden spot of the West with an abundance of new crops and lots of water.

Three crops—cotton, flax and sugar beets—are currently being boomed in the valley, already known for its rich harvest of grapes, peaches, figs, plums and citrus fruits.

Cotton planting has increased so rapidly in recent years that there are hardly enough ginning facilities to take care of the bumper crops. Four years ago, the total acreage devoted to this crop in the valley was 125,600 acres. This figure jumped to 203,750 in 1935, 348,500 last year and an all-time high of 600,000 acres this fall.

Long Staple Variety.

The chief value of California cotton is its extraordinary whiteness and long staple. The national average length of the staple is seven-eighths of an inch, while cotton grown here averages one and three thirty-seconds of an inch. Only a limited amount of Mississippi delta cotton exceeds it in length.

Virgin soil that has been turned over to cotton is producing heavy yields. Western cotton produces an average of 591 pounds to the acre while the national average is only 200 pounds. This tremendous yield will bring more than $40,000,000 to cotton growers of the valley this year, most of which will be expended in wages, taxes and new planting.

Vast plains that formerly were barren deserts are being plowed up with giant tractors. Deep water wells provide abundant irrigation for the fertile soil. This has produced not only the big increase in cotton but a new development in flax in two short years.

Only a few experimental patches of flax were here in 1935, chiefly on the west side of the valley. More than 8,000 acres were planted in Fresno county alone this year and growers find it more profitable than grain or wheat. Flax yields between twenty and twenty-one bushels to the acre, which gives a large amount of linseed oil for paints, ink and linoleum. Planting will be doubled or tripled next year.

Sugar Beets Thrive.

Sugar beets grow so well here that large sugar interests are sponsoring heavy planting of beets. The industry has blossomed from practically no planting two years ago to more than 12,000 acres this year. The west side plains, particularly in the area of Coalinga, have proved ideal for beets. This new producing area is one reason why national acreage has jumped to an extent where some of the beets can be used for seed. Formerly all seed was imported from central Europe.

An all-year diversification of crops and ability to use equipment and labor nearly the year-round is bringing prosperity to the San Joaquin valley. In addition to the planting of cotton, flax and sugar beets, total acreages on other crops this year are 375,000 for grapes, 69,000 for peaches, 50,000 for citrus, 35,000 for figs, 20,000 for apricots and 8,500 for plums.

Pronounced "Mackinaw" Mackinac Island was originally called Michilimackinac or Mississiquia. From the Chippewa and Ottawa dialects of the Algonquians, the French, and later the English, got the name Michilimackinac. Later this was contracted to Mackinac, pronounced "mackinaw."

Site of New Hampshire

Was Gift to John Mason

New Hampshire was originally a grant of land from the ill-starred Charles I to John Mason, merchant and shipmaster, in 1629. The latter founded and named his new possession, but found to his cost that a tract of virgin forest on a new continent could easily swallow a fortune and still yield no profit. In fact, this well meant gift ruined Mason. But settlement had been started at Strawberry Bank, now Portsmouth, and those at Dover, Exeter and Hampton followed.

Among the early settlers there must have been artisans of various kinds, but records of them are fragmentary and hard to locate. Of "joyners" working in the New Hampshire grants during the Seventeenth century I have found but a scant dozen, writes Paul H. Burroughs in the American Collector. The earliest one was Thomas Crockett, who in 1633 was working at Piscataway. By the latter part of the century, however, there were several families who had accumulated fair fortunes for the period. For instance, we find the will of Walter Abbot, of Dover, dated 1682, listing about 150 acres of land, cows, oxen, pigs, and one mare. In addition were "Ye new dwelling house," a log house, and outbuildings.

In the log house the furniture included a bedstead, "4 joyn stools and one chair," two tables and forms, a bedstead table, and a chest. The new dwelling house contained "1 table and forme, 1 looking glass, 3 bedsteads and old valance and 1 table board." Thus we see furniture was scarce, but not so highly prized as one might think, as the "4 joyn stools and 1 chair" were inventoried at ten shillings and the looking glass at two.

Farm-grown black walnuts and hickory nuts of the northeast may some day rival the English walnuts of the west and the pecans of the south, says Professor L. H. MacDaniels of the pomology department at Cornell University. Basis for this statement is that the wild species from which the English walnut has developed bears small thick-shelled nuts that are no better, he explains, than ordinary seedling black walnuts now available.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—An early buying wave in today's stock market, touched off by action of the Federal Reserve in altering margin requirements, was relatively short-lived and initial upswings running to 6 or more points were sharply reduced or cancelled near the final hour.

The ticker tape was several minutes behind during the first period as blocks of 1,000 to 15,000 shares swamped the recording facilities. There were numerous delayed openings of as much as half an hour.

The pace slowed appreciably after the initial surge, but later proceeded to recede from top levels. Transfers were at the rate of about 2,500,000 shares.

Brokers said short covering, combined with quick-turn trading demand, had much to do with the initial bulge. The urge to cash in profits, however, apparently served to stem the advancing tide.

Bonds did better all around, but commodities were uneven. The strength of American securities in foreign markets before the start of dealings here helped brighten the picture.

Favored on the upturn were shares of U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Wheeling Steel, Inland Steel, Republic Steel, Inland Steel, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Westinghouse, General Electric, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck.

Pork Packed in Barrels

Gave the Industry Name

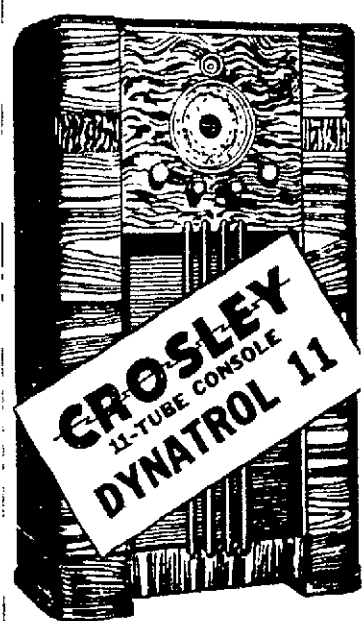

As population on the eastern seaboard increased during the early development of the country, live stock producers in that area found it impossible to keep pace with demand. Settlers in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys started to raise live stock.

With the advent of the railroad, notes a writer in the Chicago Tribune, stock was shipped to eastern centers where it was killed and processed. The first trend toward removal of the industry from the East occurred when pork packing was inaugurated in cities west of the Alleghenies. This consisted of packing pork in barrels with salt to keep it fresh during transit. From this practice the industry derived its name, now a misnomer. During the Civil war Cincinnati was the nation's largest packing center.

About 1875 the refrigerator car was developed, which made possible the shipment of fresh meats, resulting in the rapid development of packing centers in Chicago and other middlewestern cities. Refrigeration made possible a continuous flow of fresh meats from the Middle West not only to the East but to all parts of the world.

Empty sugar and flour sacks come in handy for many household odds and ends. After thorough washing and boiling to remove all traces of lint and printed matter, they can be used as cleaning cloths or tied over the broom for sweeping down walls and ceilings, or dusting hardwood floors.

Meat combined with gravy and vegetables in casserole dishes ranks high as a favorite way of serving left-over meat. Meat pies, topped with mashed potatoes or with a biscuit crust, are delicious. In preparing these dishes, remember that the meat is already cooked and needs only to be thoroughly heated.

Plattekill House Hertica Claims Robbed, Troopers Hold Newburgher

The house of John Plarnstorm, whose farm in just outside Plattekill, was broken into during his absence about 9 o'clock on the night of October 26, and a quantity of goods taken. Among articles missed were a fur coat, an evening wrap, man's overcoat and other articles.

The burglary was reported to the state police at Highland and Sergeant Hulise, Corporal Mahony and Troopers Baker and Metzger began an investigation that resulted in the arrest Wednesday night of John F. Maguire, 33, of 170 Carson avenue, Newburgh.

The troopers state that a confession was obtained and that a number of the stolen articles were recovered from places in Newburgh, where they had been sold.

Maguire, who is said to have a record of arrests in Newburgh on misdemeanor charges, was arraigned before Justice William B. Carr of Clintonville, who held him for appearance before the grand jury. He was brought to the Ulster county jail.

Plarnstorm, who is at present living alone, his wife being in New York city, was absent from the house at the time of the burglary. Entrance to the house had been gained by breaking two windows.

Because of a conflicting date the Workers' Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday School which had been announced for this evening, has been postponed to Thursday, November 4.

A number of people from this place attended the Rebekah Lodge card party at Ulster Park last evening.

Mrs. Lawrence Jordan, who has been ill for the past few weeks, is much improved and is now able to be out.

Owen Brathard has returned to his home in Cato after spending several days with his friend, Jack Reynolds.

The public is invited to attend the card party which the Ladies Auxiliary of the Port Ewen firemen will hold in the firehouse on Thursday evening, November 4.

LAZZERI SIGNS.
Chicago, Oct. 28 (AP)—Tony Lazzeri, for 12 years star second baseman for the New York Yankees, was signed today by owner Phil K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs as player and coach for 1938. The deal was closed at a one-hour conference with Wrigley. Lazzeri came from his home in San Francisco for the meeting. Lazzeri, who became the Yanks' regular second baseman in 1926, has played in six world series.

A world record for low infant mortality, it is believed, has been established by Adelaide, the South Australian capital, according to the annual report of the Lord Mayor. During the year the mortality rate fell to 23 per 1,000 births, compared with 55 per 1,000 for the previous nine years. The reasons given for the drop were the excellent supervision and the training of mothers and expectant mothers by health associations.

Apartments in London are called flats.

RACE BOSS POSTS BAIL

Walter E. Quinn and Walter E. O'Hara, race boss, were released today by Deputy Sheriff Arthur Brown and State Troopers Kelly and Merritt. The matter also had been reported to the post office authorities.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Freer attended a card party at Rosendale and on returning home about 1 o'clock found the screen on the kitchen window had been torn or cut loose and the kitchen window opened about 4 inches. Apparently no one had gained entrance to the building which in another portion houses the village post office.

The matter was reported to Sheriff Molyneux and State Trooper Kelly and this morning an investigation was made. The ruin of last evening had erased all tracks in the soil about the window. It was found the cloth screen had been cut or torn and the window, which had not been locked, was pushed up about four inches. The officers after an investigation about the house were of the impression the work might have been that of children and paid a visit to the school where several children were interviewed, but with little success. The matter is being further investigated.

Entry Attempt Is Probed Today

An attempt to enter the home of Mrs. Hazel Freer, postmistress at Blinnewater, was being investigated today by Deputy Sheriff Arthur Brown and State Troopers Kelly and Merritt. The matter also had been reported to the post office authorities.

"No Surrender"
Washington, Oct. 28 (AP)—Attitudes of "no surrender" by both factions in organized labor's civil war created a widespread belief today that the week's recess of the peace conference might last indefinitely. An American Federation of Labor statement last night said: "We have not received any help from the representatives of the Committee for Industrial Organization. Unless there is change in their attitude... it is doubtful if any progress can be made toward peace."

Australia has built an all-steel streamlined train which will compare in speed with the best American production. Its color is a royal blue, with two bars of gold leaf along each side.

IT COST ME PLENTY Not TO BORROW
